Fewer Girls But Better Lookers, Due This Season

There will be fewer show-girls on the road this season, but they will be better looking. This summary of the theatrical outlook was given today by H. B. Cagle, manager of local theatres.

"The companies, as a rule, will be smaller this season than they were last," he said. . "This is made necessary because of the increase in passenger rates. .. Transportation costs is a very important item in the financial success of road companies. Indications now are that the big musical show, which formerly carried perhaps a dozen persons who had practically no role to speak of, will cut their companies, relieving them of the cost of transportation of the surplus material. The salaries which formerly went to those will be added to the checks of persons handling the major roles, enabling the managers to obtain better talent."

The spirit of Bolshevism has ever been abroad in the world but under other names. It is nothing new under the sun. We have had it in the Nihilists, in the I. W. There was a fearful relaxation of statesmanship when world leaders refused the President's advice which if it had been taken would have thrown the protecting arm of the law about the world's peoples-would have established the arbitrament of reason in place of that of the sword.

Wilson would have held conferences with the Russian Bolsheviki before he left France, but the Continental statesmen would have none of it. They preferred to throw a ring of steel about Russia as if force of arms ever stopped a popular uprising. And especially one that the people were made to believe sprang out of a love of freedom. Every one who lives in central Africa any length of time sooner or later becomes affected with the filaria loa. worm which is about two inches in ength and the size of a hair. Its larva s supposed to be taken into the body in drinking water, and, when incubated, it wanders through the body for a long period. At one time it may make its presence known in the forearm or the back of the hand by a painless swelling. At another time the same indications appear in a leg or about the lips or forehead.

Missionaries tell me that I have several of them la my body, although, save for the indications described, they have caused me little or no inconvenience. The worm is supposed to end its career in the eye of the victim, and in Africa is commonly called "eye worm" because of this tendency. Mole's Marvelous Appetite.

Incredible stories are told of the mole's appetite, and in order to see if there was anything in them (writes an English correspondent) I tried an experiment. My mole-a matronly lady-weighed three and half ounces. Each item of food that she was given was carefully weighed, and here is her record between 9 a. m. and noon; One frog, three slugs, twenty-four earthworms, a piece of raw mutton, and a hit of cheese, a total of just over four ounces. Some delay followed, as my stock of weighed food was exhausted. Probably by the time I had replenished it she thought it was time for a fresh meal, for she went at it again with no visible damage to her appetite, and before three o'clock she had got through another three Stock Exchange hour by hour." > The gowns and hats worn by the models at the show made the slim ones look pleasingly plump and the Then there were other models who were neither too slight nor too fat, but who looked absolutely all right in the Fall fashions. The association is conducting a national educational campaign among women to show them that any figure dressed carefully may be made to look attractive There were some hats from Paris, but those designed in this city were said by experts to be just as wonderful as the foreign creations. Most of the hats were designed by three young men who, it was said officially, draw salaries of $40,000, $60,000 and $100,000 a year, and who lived in small towns in Missouri, Indiana and Ohio as late as three years ago.

SNAKE-EATERS IN CON ENTION

Qathering Which is Held Annually in North Africa Must Be a Re-pulsive Sight.

After a lapse of five years, the annual convention of the snake-eaters of northern Africa has lately been held. Seventeen of the most renowned repfile consumers from various parts of Tunis and Algeria took part,

'An extraordinary feature of the convention was that most of the snake-enters served in the French army during the war, many of them wearing the medals they won in France.

More than, four hundred small snakes of various sizes were carefully measured and distributed to the competitors. A score-keeper watched each man, and the spectators cheered the "eaters" at the top of their voices.

The "eating" consisted of forcing a snake into the mouth as quickly as possible, but no bunching or rolling up of the reptiles was allowed. The snake had to be forced in head first, and as soon as the tall had disappeared, which it usually did with extraordinary rapidity, the competitor quickly snatched it out of his mouth and inserted another.

The man who finished his 24 snakes first was adjudged the winner, and was presented with a prize consisting of a round ball studded with brass nalls and hung with brass chains, to As milk is such a sustaining prop—which were attached silver and gold They shifted to that—but it sold by

SCRAWLED BY GREAT POET?

Signature of William Shakespeare, Be-lieved Genuine, Found on Wall in Hampton Court.

The discovery of the signature of William Shakespeare, scrawled years ago on the wall of the "haunted gallery" of Hampton court, has just been made in London. Shakespeare authori-ties pronounce it authentic. The disclosure was made when Ernest Law, the court antiquarian, was directing the renovations. On the wall of the old retiring room he found, after cleaning it, the letter "S," followed by illegible letters, concluding "kespeare," and beneath the rough sketch of a hand and the date 1606.

It is a matter of history that the ace at the date set down and played "Hamlet" before the then King Christian of Denmark. The company dress ed in the "haunted gallery," near the great hall where the play was enacted.

The gallery, according to ancient confinement while the king was praying in his private chapel, and that her flight was discovered by the court guards, who dragged her screaming to the king, interrupting his devotions. It was long said that Catherine nightwalked the gallery, shricking.-Toron

RELY ABSOLUTELY ON NILE

Without the River's Annual Inundation Egypt Would Be Literally a Barren Waste.

Usually on June 15 the inundation f the Nile commences, the greatest eight being at the autumnal equinox. after which the waters subside until the following April. The great advantages which Egypt derives from the annual rise of the river and saving of country from barrenness, has caused the Nile to be known by the inhabitants as the most holy river, they believing that it draws its source from Paradise.

In former days it had its appointed riests, festivals and sacrifices, and if its rising were delayed by a single day they took the most beautiful maiden they could find and dressing her richly, drowned her in the waters as a victim to turn away the god's anger and merit his favors. The caliphs abolished this cruel sacrifice. Substituting one less barbarous, they threw into the river a letter in which it was commanded that the waters rise if it were the will

It has been stated that the quality of the Nile water is such that it is highly extolled for drinking purposes and no matter how long kept it does not become impure.

First Steamboat in West.

The first steamboat on the western waters was the Orleans, built in 1811 at Pittsburgh by Robert Fulton, under the firm name of Fulton & Livingston, his partner being Chancellor R. Livingston of New York. It arrived at Louisville, Ky., in October, destined for New Orleans, but the rivthe falls, it plied between Louisville and Cincinnati until early in Decem ber, when it descended the river and entering the Mississippi encountered at New Madrid, Mo., the earthquake of December 11, which formed Reelfoot lake in Tennessee, and the lakes in Arkansas, opposite and above Memphis, which remain now. Blessing the Alpine Ropes.

Every summer, at the beginning of the climbing season in the Swiss moun tains, a solemn service is held-among the guides, many of whom are godly men who know they take their lives in their hands when they ascend the Alps. So they bring their ropes with them and lay them at the foot of one of the mountains. Old and new ropes are piled in a heap, and then they are blessed by the pastor. Prayer is offered that the old ropes may still bear the strain safely and that the new ropes may prove equal to all the stress placed upon them. The guides are commended to the mercy of God that in their daily ascents they may be kept safe and that they may succor the travelers who trust in them .- F. H. Cheley in "Stories for Talks to Boys."

Egypt Raised Cotton in 200 B. C. Cotton has been grown in Egypt-since 200 B. C., but it was not until a hundred years ago that Jumel, a French engineer, suggested the introduction of the commercial varieties. In 1822 the famous American sea island cotton was the first sown. Five years later a Brazilian variety was introduced. The two strains were mingled and from them came the famous "Ashmouni" plant and the still finer "Mutaffi," which is one of the most productive cottons in the world.

Whisky Called "Water of Life." The art of distilling liquors is first entioned by Albukassen, an Arabian physician who lived in the tenth century. In the Live Stock. Journal of London a correspondent relates the observations of an English horse-trainer recently escaped from Russia: "The Bolshevists went to all the stud farms and divided the stock among themselves. The best stallion in Russia, imported just before the war at an enormous expense, was given to a peasant, who took the horse off to his village in the interior to draw his cart for a few days and then be slaughtered for food. The evists then started an improved stud farm under nationalist management. They made it up of six stallions

Location at Uranus.

The latest calculations, based on the perturbations of Uranus, are stated by Dr. Eric Doolittle to show that the hypothetical planet beyond Neptune is nearly four billion miles from the sun, and requires 283 years to complete a revolution in its orbit. It is much smaller than other distant planets, with a mass only six times that of the earth. This is a secret of its elusiveness, and its discovery is expected to reveal a minute body of only the twelfth or thirteenth magnitude. Search is now being made for this mystery of the skies near Gemini's western border.

West African Town Not Always A Quiet Spot.

Considered Thoroughly Up to Date Today, It Was the Scene, Twenty Years Ago, of Grim Tragedy of Frontier Warfare.

Marjorie and Alan Letheridge, the special correspondents of the London Daily Telegraph in West Africa, write as follows from Coomassie, capital of the British colony of Ashan-

At the present day Coomassie looks more like an Indian town than any other on the coast, and it is the pride of its residents that socially it is also like India. There are real grass tennis courts, a real regimental band, and, before the war, there was the best polo team in the colony. Such it is today, and yet, only twenty years ago, the quaint little fort in the center of the town was the scene of one of the grimmest sieges of Britain's many frontier wars.

Only the fact that all eyes were turned on South Africa at that time prevented the siege of Coomassie from taking its proper place in history. But we who have experienced the inconveniences and discomforts of trekking "de luxe," and who knows how much is needful in this part of the world to make life even bearable, can appreciate somewhat the sufferings borne by the defenders of the fort and the agoalzing suspense that they endured until they heard the first shots of the relieving force.

The chief commissioner of Ashanti now lives in the fort which gave its menger protection to Captain Bishop, Lieutenant Ralph and Dr. Hay, with their 125 soldiers, during those interminable weeks. One now has an evening gin and bitters on the very spot from which those three officers could see the fires of burning villages and hear the wailing of starving women and children. The Ashantis themselves seem to have shot their last bolt in the way of "frightfulness," however, and no longer rank among the brave tribes of the colony. Only one trace of the roundnce of the past remains.

Where is the golden stool of Ashanti? It disappeared in 1896 and has never been seen since. On it the Ashanti chiefs had sat and dispensed their own peculiar form of justice from the earliest days and, so far as is known. it is still concealed in the innermost recesses of their land. But it would be a brave European who openly at tempted to track it to its hiding place, and there is just a possibility that it has been privately sold during a period of financial stress,

Kofe Karikari, the King of Ashanti in 1373, behaved in an even more sacrilegious manner. He secretly opened the mausoleum of his ancestors and robbed their bodies of the golden ornaments without which no Ashanti of any means is ever lowered into the

An admission of his guilt was the only thing left for King Kofe. He had sold the major proportion of his plunder, so he magniloquently informed his chiefs that he intended to blow himself and them up with gunpowder Inter in order to obliterate his shame. "We are quite ready to die as you request," was their reply, "but blow yourself up first." It is perhaps superfluous to add that King Kofe did nothing of the Wood Alcohol.

The wood alcohol used in the United States is obtained chiefly from the destructive distillation of wood-hard wood, birch, maple, oak, elm and alder being those most frequently used. The chief uses to which it is put are for the denaturing of grain alcohol; for various purposes in lines of common munufacture (especially as a solvent in the preparation of shellac, varnish, dyes, etc.); as an ingredient in medical and pharmaceutical preparations; in the chemical industries and as a fuel and illuminant. Only within recent years has wood alcohol become so dangerous to life and sight. Formerly it was a dark, bad-smelling, bad-tasting fluid which no one was tempted to drink. Later a process was developed by which this color, smell and taste are removed. Wood alcohol, when purified in this way, looks, smells and tastes like grain alcohol, and may thus be easily substituted for it by unscrupulous persons .-Illinois Health News, October, 1919.

To Restore Respiration. .
The method introduced by Schafer is the simplest, least injurious and most effective in restoring a person who has been rescued from drowning. "The subject is laid on the ground in a prone position, with a thicklyfolded garment under his chest. The operator kneels by his side or athwart him, facing his head and placing his hands on each side over the lower ribs of the subject. He slowly throws the weight of his body forward, and thus presses upon the thorax of the subject and forces air out of the lungs; he then gradually relaxes the pressure by bringing his body up again, but without removing his hands. This is repeated regularly at the rate of 12 or 15 times a minute, until normal respiration begins, or until all hope of restoration is given up."

DOROTHY DALTON IN UNUSUAL ADVENTURE PRINCESS TODAY

Alice, when she went "through the looking-glass," never encountered as thrilling adventures as befall pretty Dorothy Dalton in "The Dark Mir-I ror," the new Thomas H. Ince picture in which she is coming to the Princess Theatre Today.

The story, which was adapted by E. Magnus Ingleton from Louis Joseph Vance's popular novel, concerns a society girl who greatly resembles a certain belle of the underworld When the latter disappears, following a murder, the heiress is mistaken for her and is kidnapped. This leads to a series of thrilling adventures that Chattanooga at Birmingham (two finally end happily.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG

In "Magda," the new Select picture in which Clara Kimball Young is starring at the head of her own company, the famous screen actress achieves the triumph of her career. Playing the title role, she depicts the struggle of a girl forced to rebellion by the menace of an undesired marriage, and the subsequent events of the play move up to vivid and compelling climax. This stage classic adapted to the screen will be shown Today at the Star Theatre, and is the first of a series of eight pictures made by Miss Young, to be released during the com-his household she alone inherts his indomitable will and the fearlessness with which she opposes his wishes. When he orders her to mary the minister, she, with a young gnrl's romantic dreams of love, refuses to accede to his wishes, with the result that she is turned out of doors.

When she again flashes on her home town in the personality of Madlene Dall' Orto, the world famous singer, feted by the Governor and his officials, her father pompously agrees to forgive her. He insists, however, that she leave the hotel and live under his roof. Magda consents on condition that he ask her no question about her outside life.

What a man pays for in a tire is quality-not a limited number of miles or the privilege of getting a rebate in case the miles don't come up to the limit.

U.S. Tires are guaranteed as to quality-with no limitation of mileage.
